A MURDEROUS AFFAIR.

Contention Over Water Rights—Ended With Murder.

Several Chinese rice planters at Kamohili were the owners of a water right, each having his hours to use the water. At about 8 o'clock Friday morning Ah Young Kin went to turn the water onto his ranch, as it was his turn. The others wished to prevent it, when a squabble took place. Between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening they had another quarrel over the right, resulting in Ah Young Kin's reporting to the Police Station. As there was no very serious charges made, the Chinaman was advised to return in the morning for a warrant if he wished to prosecute.

Arriving at his home, between 1 and 2 a. m. Saturday he was attacked by, it seems, six other Chinamen, who, with a knife used in cutting weeds, attempted to cut him up. In the affray he received a cut in the calf of the leg, while part of each the first and middle finger of the left hand were cut off. Several firearms were found on the premises when searched by the authorities. One a double barrel gun, with one barrel discharged, a shot gun and a revolver; the latter looked as if it might have been used as a club. The murdered man was not shot, but evidently had been knocked insensible. The assailants, whatever their motive may have been, set fire to the house in which Ah Kin was lying. Officer Hulupui, being on the watch near, hearing the noise, ran to investigate, when he met two Chinamen on the same purpose. They arrived on time to see the man crawl from the burning hut. He was taken to the station in a hack, and Marshal Wilson was informed; the latter, seeing the wounded and burned condition of Ah Kin, sent him to the Hospital, where he died at 8 o'clock.

A coroner's jury, composed of Messrs. Joe Tucker, Ed. McInerney and Harry Armitage, Ho Fon and two other Chinamen, was summoned, who viewed the remains at the Hospital. The jury will probably resume the investigation and examination of witnesses to-day.

Where They Obtain It.

According to the Canadian Gazette, a new and flourishing business has sprung up in British Columbia, to wit, the refining of crude opium, which is afterwards smuggled into United States territory. Puget Sound, with its wide coast line and quiet waters, offers peculiar facilities for this business, and the officers of the United States Revenue Department are kept fully occupied. The duty on crude opium entering Canada is comparatively light. Parties in Victoria and Vancouver put it through the refining process, after which it sells for $7 a pound. The same article will sell in Tacoma or Seattle at $15 a pound. Consequently there are fine returns to be realized by a successful smuggling expedition.

Another Transformation.

This time it's molasses into which the opium has turned. Fourteen half-pound tins of it, enough molasses to last a Chinaman a life-time. The discovery was made Tuesday morning in the Police Court as the case of Ah Young was brought up for disposal. Ah Young was the one caught on Alakaa street about a month ago with a few tins in his possession. The look of deep dejection on his face changed to one of "beap joy" when the cans were opened, and he found he was to be released. Truly this is a wonderful climate in its effects upon the drug.

O. S. S. Zealandia.

May 10th, at 8:56 a. m., passed the S. S. Alameda bound east. Weather fine; light variable winds and fair weather.

Rothwell with 85 points. In the second class Mr. J. H. Soper secured first honors with 76 points to his credit; Mr. F. S. Dodge second, with 72.

The Cadets Take an Easy Game From the Hawaiis.

A very poor game was the result of the Kamehameha and Hawaiis' playing on Saturday. The Kamehamehas were sure they were going to win the game, and they did. The Hawaiis went all to pieces in two critical places, giving the Kamehamehas a great advantage.

THE BALL-TOSSERS.

Saturday was an off day on the diamond. Run-getting was in order, and almost everybody saw the home-plate. Twenty-five runs all told!

Both pitchers were a little wild—Woods a little more so.

Well! well! but the ball was "pounded" Saturday—more than a dozen singles, two doubles and two triples.

The Hawaiis were badly crippled again on Saturday; their regular catcher and first baseman playing in other positions.

Both Love and Robertson refused to umpire the game, and Whitney had to fill the bill.

Davis threw some daisies on Saturday, both to third and second.

Short-stop Thompson of the Hawaiis does all the coaching for that club now.

Saturday's game was the most enthusiastic one played this season. The Kams. contingent (students) was out in full force, and there was some tall "pulling" during the afternoon in the grand stand.

The Kamehamehas and Honolulu are now tie for the Spaulding Cup.

Capt. Harry Whitney umpired behind the bat and was called on to give decisions that required ability in ball matters—but he "got that."

Wahineu'kai and Meheula hit the ball hard—the former got spiked in the foot, which necessitated a sub to run for him.

Good judgment was shown in putting Davis behind the bat this season.

How is this? Errors—Kams., 5; Hawaiis, 11.

McKinley Doughnuts.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes thus: While I was in Spokane Falls the McKinley bill "struck the woodpile." A dilapidated specimen of humanity, who had evidently been on an all-night debauch, staggered one morning at day-break into a low restaurant, which runs all day and all night. He called for coffee and doughnuts. From the time when a drunken man's memory runneth not to the contrary, four doughnuts had constituted a portion. But this time the waiter appeared with a cup of coffee and three doughnuts. "What do you mean by bringing me only three doughnuts?" exclaimed the surprised customer. "Why, sir," stammered the waiter, "you see since the McKin—" Up sprang the irate customer, and, seizing the waiter by the collar, exclaimed: "Boy, if you undertake to work that racket onto me, I'll knock your two eyes into one. Bring me that other doughnut." And the other doughnut came.

A Frenchman, whose wife deserted him, amused his neighbors by telling how he got her back without trouble. "Did I run after her and beg her to come back?" he dramatically asked. "No, I did not run after her. I zhust published in ze papaire zat I have drawn fifty thousand francs in ze lottery, and she was back much quicker zan in no time."

The longest bridge in the world is the Lion Bridge near Sangang, in China. It extends 5½ miles over an arm of the Yellow Sea, and is supported by 300 huge stone arches. The roadway is 70 feet above the water, and is inclosed in an iron network. A marble lion 21 feet long rests on the crown of every pillar. The bridge was built at the command of the Emperor Kieng Long who abdicated in 1795 on account of old age.

Regarding raw sugar the New York Shipping List of April 18th says the market is favoring buyers to a slight extent, but most holders consider the situation firm and they decline to release stocks at same figures that competitors are disposed to accept. The total stock in importers' hands in the United States is 3,049 tons in comparison with 11,305 tons this time last year, and if there is any cause for a strong feeling it does not come from the statistical position of the article. Since last writing the business has been light, and includes only 900 hhds. and 3,800 bags of Muscovada 89 test at 3-16 cents net cash, and 3,000 bags centrifugal 96 test at 3½ net cash, prompt delivery. These prices would still buy, although it is claimed that the latter figure has been bid and refused by some holders. The option market has ruled dull and lower, with sales of twenty-five tons June at 3.58 cents and 25 tons July at 3.64.

The following circular has been issued by the Treasury Department:

To Collectors and other Officers of the Customs:

The following Act of Congress approved March 3, 1891, entitled "An Act relating to the treaty of reciprocity with the Hawaiian Islands," is published for the information of officers of the customs and others concerned.

O. L. SPAULDING, Assistant Secretary.

An Act relating to the treaty of reciprocity with the Hawaiian Islands. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That nothing in the Act approved October first, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled "An Act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports, and for other purposes," shall be held to repeal or impair the provisions of the convention respecting commercial reciprocity concluded January thirtieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, with the King of the Hawaiian Islands, and extended by the convention proclaimed November ninth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven; and the provisions of said convention shall be in full force and effect as if said Act had not passed.

Approved, March 3, 1891.

A dispatch from Albany, N. Y., dated April 30th says: "The Senate Committee this morning submitted a voluminous report on the sugar trust investigation. It speaks about 10 per cent dividend, and of the fabulous valuation placed upon the stock of constituent corporations. The report says it was plainly one of the chief purposes of the trust to provide for the issue of certificates affording an opportunity for great speculation, obviously to the advantage of the persons managing the trust, and to the disadvantage of the general public, who were ignorant of the secrets of the trust. Referring to the refusal of the trust officials to show books, the report says it is for the people to determine whether the refusal was because these books would show that the trust was using a combination for illegal purposes. The report questions whether the enormous dividends have been earned in the legitimate refining of sugar, and calls attention to widespread speculation in securities. It is recommended that legislation be had restraining the formation of trusts, as hostile to the interests of the people, or providing for their formation under the supervision of the State, and that they be compelled to keep books of account, or true copies for the State, to be subject to examination by duly appointed accountants."

A correspondent of the Associated Press at Rome has had a talk with a high ecclesiastical personage acquainted with

Papal views on the school question in the United States. He said, in part: "What seems necessary here from the Catholic point of view is moderation and not precipitation. The general course to be pursued, however, is quite manifest. Catholics in America should have parochial schools in all parishes where it is possible, and where there is sufficient means to render them equal to the public schools. Where it is impossible to do this, schools should be established in which the catechism may be taught, or the state should be persuaded to permit instruction in the catechism outside of the hours regularly appointed for ordinary school subjects, as is done in Germany."

"One thing is absolutely obligatory, that is, to found no parochial schools unless they can be put on a level with those of the State. At present Catholics in the United States cannot rival the State schools, as they have not sufficient resources. The Vatican has confidence in the zeal and tact of the hierarchy in America."

Rome, May 4.—The commercial treaty between Germany and Austria-Hungary has become the topic of comment by the press generally. It is not yet known that Italy has consented to join the convention at Vienna. If she should, it would seem that the political ties of the triple alliance are stronger than her commercial necessities, for among her best friends, commercially considered, are France and the United States.
